Principal's Message

"Education is not received. It is achieved"

- Albert Einstein

Embracing diversity and stimulating thought at the New Cambridge International Public School (NCIPS), it is what we claim to do. Being the Principal of such a renowned school with three decades of educational history makes me feel extremely honoured. The school has first rate facilities, including a sizeable playing field, areas for sports, well-stocked library, and labs with up-to-date technology, to name a few.

This institution stands out because it prioritises individualised learning. From the Early Years through the year 16, NCIPS Learners receive rich learning experiences and individualised feedback that inform their subsequent actions and further learning. We help young people become autonomous, lifelong learners by combining the best traditional education with the most recent technologies and pedagogical approaches. Our carefully chosen, highly skilled, and experienced teachers go through a rigorous induction procedure where they become adept at utilising cutting-edge and original teaching techniques.

I have a great belief in experiential learning as a teacher. A child needs to grow up in a fair, accepting, and supportive environment where he or she is allowed to express themselves, learn from their mistakes, and reach their full potential. The greatest task in life is inspiring and moulding young brains. Only clear academic plans and well-thought-out extracurricular activities will make it possible.

At NCIPS, we work hard to provide students with the 21st-century skills they need to succeed in today's competitive environment. I sincerely express my gratitude to all the parents who have supported NCIPS over its entire ten-year journey.

Parents can expect us to assist pupils in gaining self-assurance and to help them become independent learners with strong moral principles and practical life skills. Let's work together to raise responsible adults for a thriving and peaceful society in the future.

Thank You

J. Mahalakshmi

Philosophy

Preschool is the foundation of learning and preparing the child for formal education. Positive learning experiences at an early age contribute to the development of each child's sense of self and emotional well-being. Our effort is to provide quality education.

Children learn in an eco-friendly environment in consonance with an innovative methodology specially evolved by us after great research by experts in the field of preschool education.

I-INQUIRY I-INTERACTION I-INNOVATION (I QUBE)

We believe in celebrating childhood through the four Cs required for preschool education: curiosity, and confidence. creativity and continuity for every venture of the child.
